

INDIRECT INITIATIVE

The LWNYS does not have a position on indirect initiative.

The position supporting indirect initiative, adopted June 1978 by the state board, was dropped in 1985 by delegates to the state convention. At the time the position was adopted, the League believed the initiative to be a much-needed system by which citizens could initiate and pass legislation. Over the years, as the League observed the evolution of this system in other states, it concluded that what had once been a public benefit was fast becoming a benefit to well-funded special interest groups which had the power to affect the outcome of initiated proposals.

For Further Reference:

A Guide to New York State Government, LWNYS, 1994. Published by and available directly from the state League or the publisher: Policy Studies Association, PO Box 337, Croton-on-Hudson, NY 10520.